Tropical Lilies are of two distinct types. The Day Blooming Lilies whose flowers open with the sun and close at evening and the Night Blooming Lilies whose flowers open in the afternoon and remain open until late the following morning. Water Lilies

Hardy Lilies are unexcelled for planting in natural ponds, lakes or in still pools along a river or stream bank, and will beautify the most unattractive bit of water provided they are not planted in too deep water or near a cold inlet. Once established so that the crowns will not be injured by freezing or ice, they become a source of permanent beauty. They may be grown in the smallest of pools and in tubs. The flowers embrace all the colors from purest white, delicate shell-pink, deep rose pink to rich reds, yellows and combinations of red and yellow. There is however, no blue Hardy Lily. This color is in tropical varieties only.

The Care of your Water Lilies!

Hardy Lilies may be planted any time from the 1st of April until the middle of August.

Tropical Lilies may be planted when the temperature averages seventy degrees about May 25th.

Water lilies come into flower early in the season and bloom until frost.

Concrete pools are best left full of water and covered with boards and straw. Hardy Water Lilies will winter in the pool if the water does not freeze deeply, but Tropical Lilies are best considered as annuals and purchased new each year. Hardy Lilies growing in boxes may be taken into a cool basement until Spring. Care to be taken not to allow them to dry out.

Running water is neither necessary nor desirable and may retard the development of Water Lilies by keeping the temperature too low.

New concrete pools should be filled with water and drained at least four (4) times before any fish or plants are introduced.

Planting instructions are attached to every Water Lily tuber shipped.

Pennsylvania

(Blue Beauty)

This is one of the most popular blue Lilies. The flowers are large and bloom from Spring until frost.
